

BUILT FOR GROWTH
DESIGNED FOR IMPACT

The University of Texas at Arlington is heading west. In fall 2028, the fifth largest university in Texas will welcome the inaugural class at its newest campus, UTA West. Located on 51 acres within the Walsh Ranch development, UTA West will bring all the benefits of a top-tier research university to Parker County, one of the fastest-growing regions in the country.

With this new campus, UTA will expand access to an affordable high-quality education, especially among working professionals, recent graduates, and transfer students. Offering first-class collaborative spaces, flexible classrooms, and an architecture inspired by the Texas landscape, UTA West will redefine what a university campus experience looks and feels like. It will serve equally as an educational resource and a community hub, with beautiful event spaces and areas to gather for recreation and relaxation.

The campus will be strategic in its programming to focus on clear pathways to strong careers, playing a crucial role in supplying a highly skilled homegrown workforce for North Texas. Its curriculum will focus on high-demand fields such as healthcare, business, and engineering. Altogether, UTA West is designed to serve as a long-term economic catalyst for Parker County, driving investment, innovation, and community transformation for generations to come.

"As the reach of the DFW metroplex continues westward, it only makes sense that UTA would do the same, choosing Parker County as its home for a new campus. Our local communities, including Weatherford, Hudson Oaks, Willow Park, and Aledo, can only stand to benefit from having quality higher education in their backyard. I am pleased to welcome UTA to Parker County and look forward to making this partnership a success."
